DEVELOP AN EFFECTIVE INTERNSHIP
POSITION DESCRIPTION

Following are key components to an effective internship position description:

Organizational Overview
It is helpful to provide the potential applicant with a brief overview of your organization, along with a link to your company website.

Internship Title
Be specific: “Marketing Intern,” “Event Planning Intern,” “Accounting Intern,” etc. Giving your internship a detailed title will help the student determine if he/she wants to explore your opportunity further.

Minimum GPA
Based upon a 4.0 scale, determine the minimum GPA you will accept from applicants (4.0 = A; 3.0 = B; 2.0 = C; 1.0 = D).

Degree Track
Are you looking for a student currently working toward his/her associates, bachelors, or masters degree? Do you require your intern to be at least of a junior status? Most students perform internships beginning the summer between their sophomore and junior years of college, but performing internships earlier is becoming more common.

Internship Timeframe
When would you like for the internship to begin and end? Typical internship timeframes run along the same schedule as academic semesters: early September to early December for fall; late January to late April for spring; and mid-May to early August for summer.

Weekly Internship Hours
Will your internship be part time or full time? How many hours would you like your intern to work per week? Keep in mind that while many students set aside their summer to perform an internship full time, fall and spring semesters offer class schedules that may allow students to spend 10-15 hours per week in an internship. Additionally, depending on the student’s academic program, he/she may have a minimum number of internship hours that must be completed if performing the experience for academic credit. It is recommended that you state preferred internship hours in your position description, but ask applicants about their availability during the interview process.

Required and Preferred Skills
Students performing internships learn in a hands-on environment, providing excellent experience for their future careers. While much will be taught during the internship experience, some skills are required prior to hiring the student as your intern. Should the student be familiar with Power Point, excel, at public speaking, or be creative? If so, be sure to identify it in the position description.

Responsibilities/Goals
This should be the most detailed portion of your position description. The intern's responsibilities are the projects the student will perform and be expected to complete during the internship experience. It is recommended that these are listed from most important to least important. While administrative duties may be included in this section, it is important to identify project work that is both helpful to you as an employer and educational for the intern, allowing for meaningful, hands-on experience during the internship.

Other Details
Is this a paid position? Is travel involved? Is a personal vehicle required? When is the application deadline? When do you plan to conduct interviews? Should the student submit a writing sample or portfolio? Specific details (such as pay rate) can be discussed and negotiated during the interview and internship offer, but providing information up front allows the applicant to learn as much as possible about the internship opportunity prior to submitting an application.

Consultation Services
Upon request, recruiters may schedule consultations services with a career services staff person to create a custom recruitment strategy

Employer Relations staff contact information

Internship Position Description Template

Organization Name:
Address:
Phone:
Fax:
Web site:

Intern supervisor and e-mail address:

Alternate contact name and e-mail address:

Products/Services/Overview:

Intern Title:

Internship responsibilities (please be specific):

Required skills/training (please be specific):

Internship period and preferred hours: