

Horoscopes: Xavier Edition

by Emily Hoferer and Andrew Chestnut

Aries

March 21-April 19

A string of fortunate events will kick off when someone from the men's basketball team says hi to you. The occurrence of many happy events will come to a halt around Halloween when you realize that beer pong really is a game of millimeters and are forced to take off your clothes after getting shut out by a team that includes a freshman and someone who throws underhanded.

Taurus

April 20-May 20

Tempestuous Pluto will be a source of agitation for you. Your roommate will threaten to move out after you insult their intelligence when they rearrange your room so your bed blocks your door. Subsequently, you will throw up into your roommate's backpack after a night of vivacious partying. You will then call it even and co-habitate together in bliss.

Gemini

May 21-June 21

Watch out for flying discs as you travel across the greenspace. Befriend these disc-throwing individuals at your own personal risk. Under this year's moon, they will likely turn blue and invade the Cintas Center around the beginning of November.

Cancer

June 22-July 22

You will attempt to reply "that's what she said" whenever possible and turn into either a disgrace to your friends or the life of the party.

Leo

July 23-August 22

You will consistently run into the one person you never, ever want to see. You will eventually tire of finding alternative ways to get to class when you realize that this person should have graduated, but for some reason they are still on campus...not working, not taking classes, just using the computers in the library because they can't afford internet access. You will feel vindicated.

Virgo

August 23-September 22

An ongoing disagreement with roommates over "Who is better at Madden '09" will end in three months with both contestants earning a total GPA of 3.3 and two lost scholarships.

Libra

September 23-October 23

Beware of Resident Assistants this week, as yours' is likely to have become angry and bitterly regretful of their decision to be an RA this year after three weekends of sitting in the dorms while all of their friends have copious amounts of fun. Stay quiet in your rooms, and be sure not to make eye contact with them when walking by (especially if they are a Leo). Be cautious of their illusory smiles; they seek to punish you for their pain.

Scorpio

October 24-November 21

The prediction in your Blue Gibbon fortune cookie will come true, but it will not happen "in bed." The stars are unclear as to whether this is be a good thing or bad thing.

Sagittarius

November 22-December 21

Saturn is out of whack this entire season. If you have dreams involving pink slips of paper, do not park in any questionable areas. Also, avoid the men in black on bicycles, especially if you decided to partake in drunken escapades near any kind of foliage.

Capricorn

December 22-January 19

Your patience will be tested as you are consistently harassed to register to vote in Ohio. As much as you want to, restrain yourself from hurting these people and channel your negative energy into something more productive, like actually registering to vote (your vote counts everywhere, even if it's not in Ohio).

Aquarius

January 20-February 18

The imminent opening of CiCi's Pizza at Surrey Square, your alarmingly frequent patronage thereof, and the subsequent 15 pounds you gain will foil your attempts to achieve a B in philosophy by flirting with the professor.

Pisces

February 19-March 20

Because Venus is in the third house, avoid any type of running on a Saturday night on your way home from a party and/or Dana's. While it will get you where you are going faster, Norwood is famous for tree roots and uneven sidewalks. And if you are going home with someone, avoid the paparazzi-esque traffic on Cleneay.
