

Rights

- To not be denied access due to a disability, according to the law
- To receive reasonable accommodations that provide equal opportunity and access
- To have access to auxiliary aids/assistive technology as available to other students
- To not be counseled toward “more restrictive career objectives”
- To receive assistance from ADR in removing physical, academic and attitudinal barriers
- To not be discriminated against due to a disability or receive any retaliatory discrimination, as protected by law
- To decide whether or not to identify themselves to the Office of Accessibility and Disability Resources
- To decide whether or not to use their accommodations each semester

Responsibilities

- To identify to the Office of Accessibility and Disability Resources if they wish to receive accommodations
- To provide documentation of disability
- To participate in an intake interview with a Disability Services staff member to initiate services
- To initiate specific accommodations by following the procedures outlined in a discussion with the Disability Services staff member
- To provide professors with reasonable notice in which to implement the accommodations
- To provide for personal independent living needs or other personal disability-related needs
- To identify to the Office of Accessibility and Disability Resources if they wish to receive accommodations
- To provide documentation of disability
- To participate in an intake interview with a Disability Services staff member to initiate services
- To initiate specific accommodations by following the procedures outlined in a discussion with the Disability Services staff member
- To provide professors with reasonable notice in which to implement the accommodations
- To provide for personal independent living needs or other personal disability-related needs
- To assume personal responsibility for meeting with faculty and requesting additional assistance
- To follow all Office of Accessibility and Disability Resources policies and procedures to receive accommodations

- To assume personal responsibility for meeting with faculty and requesting additional assistance
- To follow all Office of Accessibility and Disability Resources policies and procedures to receive accommodations