

an Economy of Compassion

Fr. Ben works toward an economy of compassion, an economic system where both workers and owners benefit, rather than an economy of exploitation. He seeks compassion in all relationships. There is no way we can love our neighbor if we pollute the environment and make the air unfit to breathe and the water unfit to drink, he asserts.

“We are either going to learn to live together, or learn to die together.”