

AFMIX Capstone Reflection

In light of my AFMIX experience my heart has been touched in the teachings of Solidarity and becoming a woman for others.

Performing my role at Xavier, as a campus-events service person, allows me to personally be engaged with many staff, faculty and student organizations in the preparations of their endeavors to serve Xavier or the surrounding communities. Whether it is collaborating on physical setups or layout strategies, the multi-tasking, increasingly-changing demands of the job can sometimes challenge your faith. However, as we continue to strive for excellence and to see God in the midst of outreach programs; the post event-reports that the "Relay for Life" or the "Community Action Day" (to name a few) were successful, has great rewards in the realization that you contributed a small part.

What now?

WE continue to walk in our ordained responsibility to share the blessings we have received through our own experiences. Not only our Loving God's touch on our own life; but also of the lasting relationships we have formed through this priceless learning opportunity. This is how I strive to live Xavier's Mission.
