

General Records Retention Schedule

Using this Schedule

The Xavier University Records Retention Schedule defines commonly held records across most areas of the University and their suggested retention period. This schedule applies to common records managed by all campus units. Some guidelines are office-specific, while others apply to multiple offices and departments. In the event that you cannot locate a record within the retention schedule, please contact the Office of General Counsel. Please contact University Archives to discuss records that may require unique retention guidelines due to their exceptional nature.

This schedule indicates how long records must be kept in each office. If more than one retention period applies to a record, it should be maintained for the longest of the applicable periods. Following the retention period are disposition instructions, typically “Destroy” or “Transfer to University Archives.” Selected record series may be kept indefinitely within a Responsible Office (example: student transcripts kept by the Office of the Registrar).

Consistent with the Ohio Public Records Law as applicable, and this Policy, the Xavier University Police Department (XUPD) maintains its own Records Retention Schedule. For more information about XUPD records retention schedule, contact XUPD via phone at 513-745-2000 or visit their website <https://www.xavier.edu/police/>. To the extent that Safety Records are mentioned in this Schedule, it will not apply to XUPD.

Retention Schedule Definitions:

- Active: While the record is Active or is still in use in the office. Examples: 5 years; Active + 3 years
- Active + Inactive X years: While the record is Active plus Inactive X years, which is a specific number of years. Example: Active + 4 years
- Administrative Value: The usefulness of a record in the conduct of the office’s business.
- Local or Convenience Copy: Extra identical copies of documents created only for convenience or reference or research by employees.
- Multiple Campus Offices: This phrase indicates that multiple campus offices may create and manage the same categories or types of records. It is the responsibility of each creating office to manage the disposition of these records.
- Responsible Office: The University Office that is responsible for ensuring that a particular Record is maintained for the required retention period and properly disposed of or transferred to University Archives.
- Permanent: These records must be retained indefinitely by the Responsible Office or University Archives. Permanent retention may be based on legal requirements, demonstrated administrative need, or justification of historical importance. The Responsible Office must maintain these records until their administrative use ends and is responsible for coordinating with University Archives for their transfer if it is applicable. University Archives is the official repository for information with historical or enduring value.
- Record Category: An overarching category of records based generally on function.
- Retention Period: The retention period is the length of time a record is required to be kept as set forth in the University’s Records Retention Schedule.
- Record Series: A group/set of related records, information or data that are normally used and filed or stored as a logical unit.

General Records Retention Schedule

Disposition Instructions:

- Destroy: Retention rules apply to both paper and electronic records. In general, records can be destroyed when the following conditions are met:
 - The retention period, as listed on the schedule, has passed;
 - The disposition on the schedule is marked “Destroy”; and
 - There is not an ongoing legal hold or discovery request from the Office of the General Counsel.

It is recommended that the Responsible Office complete a Records Destruction Inventory form whenever records are shredded/purged/destroyed and maintain the inventories.

Records containing confidential or sensitive information must be disposed of in University-provided secure storage bins for vendor destruction. For more information, contact Central Procurement and Accounts Payable (<https://www.xavier.edu/procurement/xavier-employees/shred-it-program/shred-it-order-form>). All hardware to be securely wiped is managed by the Office of Information Technologies. Destruction of electronic files must follow methods approved by the Office of Information Technologies.

- Transferring Records to University Archives: Offices are responsible for transferring records in any format (electronic or paper) to University Archives, if they are designated in the dispositions section of the Schedule as “Transfer to University Archives.” For more information, email the University Archivist.

Email and Electronic Records Advice

Email is not its own category of University record. Instead, the email owner/recipient should determine the subject matter of the email and then review the General Records Retention Schedule for the corresponding record series/description category and retention period.

For example, email records related to payroll issues should be retained for the same retention period as other payroll records, emails related to student grade appeals should be retained for the same retention period as student grade appeal records, etc. Organizing your email in folders by subject and then chronologically is an easy way to ensure that email is retained for the appropriate period.

Most emails sent and received by users are not university records that must be retained because they are often “transient” records. Examples of transient records include routine meeting reminders, courtesy copies, university listserv notices, and drafts. These can be deleted once they are no longer needed. Emails that are not university records include personal correspondence, professional organization listserv emails, and spam.

Faculty and staff email accounts are maintained under the User Accounts Policy. Supervisors who need access to email of departing employees in order to comply with the Records Retention Policy should contact the Office of Information Technologies.

Xavier University employees should not use personal email accounts (e.g., Gmail, Yahoo, etc.) to conduct university business. University business conducted via email should always be done through Xavier email accounts.
