

Emotional Wellbeing Reflection

This past year has been challenging, to say the least, and many people have felt the effect on their mental and emotional wellbeing. Today, take some time to reflect on the following: What changes did you experience with your mental health in the past year? What steps did you take to cope with any struggles? Is there anything you would do differently as you move forward?

