X-Guide Williams College of Business

Improve organizations and society, consistent with the Jesuit tradition, in our business programs.

Follow your signs

You're not afraid of numbers. Strategically solving problems excites you. Maybe you naturally have an analytical personality or perhaps you've always been one with an entrepreneurial spirit.

These are usually signs that a major in business is calling. As you're choosing a path for college, explore exactly where these signs could be leading you within the business field.

How do you decide on a major?

As you begin exploring your major options, remember there is no "right way" to do so. Everyone's process is unique, just like your college experience. While researching potential majors within the business field, it may be helpful to keep these questions in mind:

Why are you interested in business?

Is there a specific reason you're looking into the business field? Sometimes outside influences such as family members, past school courses, and personal experiences can influence how we choose our career path.

What field of study within business would you want to pursue?

The world of business is broad, allowing you to explore a variety of programs including Accounting, Economics, Marketing and much more. Haven't decided on a field of study? No worries, Xavier offers a Business Undecided major for any students who have not decided on a specific major within the Williams College of Business.

What career path do you want to take?

There are many options when it comes to jobs in business. If you don't have an ideal career path in mind yet, then consider what characteristics your perfect position would have and compare those to jobs within your field.

What do you want out of your career and what do you value?

Do you want to travel? Are you looking for an office environment or more hands-on work? Would you prefer working directly with people or behind the scenes? These are a few questions to ask yourself when you're mapping out your career choices to make sure your path leads you toward a job that fits your values.

- Xavier and the Queen City

One of the best parts of being a Musketeer is learning in the growing and thriving city of Cincinnati. Cincinnati is home to multiple Fortune 500 companies and nationally recognized hospitals where many students find employment and internship opportunities. Some of these companies include Kroger, Procter & Gamble, and American Financial Group.

While Cincinnati is bustling with business, it's also the center of a social scene like no other. The Queen City has multiple activities such as BLINK, ice skating in Fountain Square, Cincinnati Zoo and Botanical Gardens, major sports events, museums, Riverbend Music Center, and so many others.
